

Presumptive Eligibility Training for Qualified Providers Effective July 2008

Medicaid Programs for Pregnant Women

Commit to your health.

There are currently three programs that are designed to help cover some medical services for pregnant women. These are:

- The Pregnant Women's Program
- Emergency Services
- Presumptive Eligibility

What Is the Pregnant Women Program?

A Medicaid option that enables pregnant women to receive regular Medicaid through their pregnancy and at least 60 days postpartum.

What Is the Emergency Services Program?

An option for non-citizens that assists with the cost of Emergency Services including labor and delivery.

What Is Presumptive Eligibility?

An option which is designed to improve pregnant women's access to temporary outpatient services while their eligibility for Medicaid benefits is determined.

- Non-citizens will no longer be eligible for the PE program as of July 1, 2008.

Presumptive Eligibility

- The purpose of this training is to focus on changes to Presumptive Eligibility that will be effective July 1st, and discuss how these changes will affect Qualified Providers.

Legal Authority – Wyoming Department of Health (WDH)

The Presumptive Eligibility program began in 1992. The Wyoming Department of Health administers the program.

- QPs determine Presumptive Eligibility.
- DFS determines eligibility for Pregnant Women and Emergency Services.

Qualified Providers

Examples of QPs include:

- Public Health Nursing Offices
- Indian Health Services
- Some physician offices
- Clinics
